TRADITIONAL JOINERY METHODS

We have been accustomed to hard timber for over 60 years and have learned to treat it with respect and kindness. Our thorough drying and manufacturing procedures assure material free of cracks, balanced in colour and structure so that the result is a harmonious, unique and unforgettable piece of furniture. Aside from the most advanced, precise technology, we also still rely on ever experienced carpenter's hand and traditional joinery methods. Finishing oiling by natural oils and waxes underlines the structural diversity of solid wood. Our contemporary, but conservative, Javorina design' in combination with durable, ecological materials predetermines a product of long term use. Should you choose to give Javorina a try, you might as well plan for a serious, lasting relationship.

WE HOPE YOU DON'T MIND OUR CARESSING
YOUR FURNITURE
SO FONDLY; AFTER THESE SIXTY YEARS
TOGETHER WE'VE BECOME QUITE CLOSE...

ORECH MEANS WALNUT

IN SLOVAK LANGUAGE

American black walnut (Juglans nigra) is a rare timber. It is appreciated mainly for its unique aesthetic and technological properties, and has a very intense, yet delicate structure. The timber is ideal for furniture construction, carving and wood turning. In amongst competition of other solid woods it stands out for its high dimensional stability. It's durable, flexible and a very 'quiet' wood. Apart from its applications in furniture building and interior design it also finds its use as an elegant detail in luxury car interiors or as a distinct smoke pipe.

DUB MEANS OAK

IN SLOVAK LANGUAGE

Solid Oak is used mainly for its properties such as hardness, strength, toughness and durability. It tolerates highs and lows in ambient humidity very well. It contains a lot of tannin for which it's ideal in wine barrels production and it's also well suited for outdoor use. It's been appreciated and used since ancient times in high quality furniture construction as well as a timber flooring material. Oak timber provides for plenty of character in sense of wood structure, it stains well and it's very easy to look after.
